DETAILED ACTION

Action Summary

The rejection of claims 1-5 under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph is hereby expressly withdrawn in view of Applicant's amendment.

The rejection of claims 1-4 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Montgomery et al. (WO 99/20260 A2) is maintained for the reasons stated in the previous Office Action.

The rejection of claim 5 under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Montgomery et al. (WO 99/20260 A2) as applied to claims 1-4 above, and further in view of Venkatesh et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,517,871 B1) is maintained for the reasons stated in the previous Office Action.

Response to Arguments

Applicants' arguments filed May 18, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. With regard to 35 U.S.C. 102(b) rejection over Montgomery, Applicants essentially argue that Montgomery et al. indicate their invention would be useful in including treating wasting disease, promoting trainability and fitness, and altering body composition and that example 2 of Montgomery et al. describe the treatment of military recruits with the AT1 antagonist Losartan which is different from the presently-claimed invention. This is not persuasive because Montgomery et al. clearly teach the AT1 receptor antagonists including eprosartan is useful for the treatment of prevention of stroke or its recurrence and because Montgomery et al. in his claims 2, 20 and 21, specifically teaches that eprosartan as one of AT1 receptor antagonists useful for the treatment or prevention of stroke or its recurrence. Applicants argue that the presently claimed invention relates to inhibiting a subsequent stroke and the term "subsequent stroke" refers to a stroke that occurs after a primary stroke and that is a consequence of the condition the patient is in as a result of the earlier stroke, and to arrive at this invention one must first realize that pathology of patients who have already suffered from a stroke is different from those who have not. This is not persuasive because it is noted that Montgomery et al. teach that AT1 receptor antagonist including eprosartan is useful for the prevention or the treatment of stroke or its recurrence. This teaching of treatment of "recurrence" of stroke clearly anticipates Applicants limitation of "subsequent stroke". Therefore, Applicants claimed subject matter of inhibiting a subsequent stroke in a patient who has previously suffered at least one earlier stroke comprising administering AT1 receptor antagonist including eprosartan. is deemed anticipated by the teaching of Montgomery et al. comprising utilization of same active agent for the same treatment. With regarding 35 U.S.C. 103(a) rejection, Applicants argue that the cited combination of references fails to teach or suggest each and every claimed limitation. This is not persuasive because the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to employ eprosartan mesylate for the treatment of preventing stroke or its recurrence as taught by Montgomery et al. because eprosartan mesylate is readily available and well known salt of eprosartan as taught by Venkatesh et al. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to employ eprosartan mesylate for the prevention and treatment of reoccurrence of stroke in order to conveniently employ eprosartan mesylate formulation readily available and well known by Venkatesh et al. Thus, the claims fail to patentably distinguish over the state of the art as represented by the cited references.

Art Unit: 1617

In view of the above Office Action of November 18, 2005 is deemed proper and asserted with full force and repeated herein to obviate applicants' claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 1617

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Montgomery et al. (WO 99/20260 A2).

Montgomery et al. teach the AT1 receptor antagonist including losartan, valsartan, irbesartan, candesartan, eprosartan, tasosartan and telmisartan useful for the treatment or prevention of stroke or its recurrence. (abstract, page 7, line 21, page 8, lines 1-10, page 9, lines 8-14, claims 2, 20 and 21).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Montgomery et al. (WO 99/20260 A2) as applied to claims 1-4 above, and further in view of Venkatesh et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,517,871 B1).

Montgomery et al. as applied as before.

Montgomery et al. do not teach the specific salt set forth in claim 5.

Art Unit: 1617

Venkatesh et al. teach a formulation comprising eprosartan mesylate as well known salt form of eprosartan. (abstract, column 1).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to employ eprosartan mesylate for the treatment of preventing stroke or its recurrence as taught by Montgomery et al. because eprosartan mesylate is readily available and well known salt of eprosartan as taught by Venkatesh et al. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to employ eprosartan mesylate for the prevention and reoccurrence of stroke in order to conveniently employ eprosartan mesylate formulation readily available and well known by Venkatesh et al.

For these reasons the claimed subject matter is deemed to fail to patentably distinguish over the state of the art as represented by the cited references. The claims are therefore properly rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103.

None of the claims are allowed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
